

Looking for some academic credit to go with that internship?

Half of all college graduates complete at least one internship during their time as a student. Now, with funding from the Madison Initiative for Undergraduates, the College of Letters & Science offers a way to combine your internship with a credit-bearing UW course!

- It's an online academic experience. You can participate from anywhere around the country - or around the world. And you'll learn how to use the latest social networking tools like blogs and wikis.
- It's a reflective academic experience. You'll keep a weekly diary of your experiences, and write a reflection paper to help you decide whether the career you explored during your internship is the right one for you by relating your work to your academic studies.
- It's a collaborative academic experience. You'll read about the challenges that your fellow students face every day on the job - and they'll be able to offer advice on your experiences too.
- It's an individualized academic experience. You'll be assigned a specific set of readings that match your internship, regardless of what major you're in.
- It's an innovative academic experience. You'll wrestle with the meaning of a university education and how it relates to the reality of the modern workplace.

INTER-L&S 400

Open to all - freshman through seniors

For any student in any major (undeclared OK!)

One credit

Offered in summer, fall and spring terms

Why take an internship course?

- Many employers require you to earn credit for an internship
- To connect and collaborate with other student interns
- To use what you've learned at the UW in your on-the-job experience
- To get the most out of your internship

Sign up for the L&S internship course today!

Email Stephanie Salazar Kann at ssalazar@wisc.edu or visit http://www.lssaa.wisc.edu/careers/students/internship\_prep.html