

Enhancing Your Employability Skills For the Global Market *An Interactive Workshop

Professor Jo Andrews, Birmingham City University
Thursday, February 16, 2012
4:00-5:30 PM
260 Bascom Hall

Professor Andrews will offer an interactive session on developing your presentation, leadership and teamwork skills for your future career. She will focus on the importance of communication skills in an increasingly globalized work environment. Students currently doing or planning to begin a job search in the next year are especially encouraged to participate!

Jo Andrews is Professor of Organisational Communication at Birmingham City University and Head of International Development for the Birmingham Institute Of Art and Design. She gained her professorship in recognition of her research driven consultancy in a variety of UK organisations--analysing and advising on communication procedures--with an emphasis upon securing best practice in employer/employee relations.

Sponsored by the UW-Madison International Internship Program

International Internship Program
UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN-MADISON