

Physical Chemistry McElvain Seminar Series Presents

Marsha Lester

Dynamical outcomes of quenching:
Reflections on a conical intersection

Dr Lester received her BA from Rutgers and Ph.D from Columbia. She is currently the Edmund J. Kahn Distinguished Professor and Department Chair for the University of Pennsylvania Chemistry department. She has received numerous awards including the Camille and Henry Dreyfus Young Faculty Award, a National Science Foundation Career Advancement Award, and is a fellow of American Academy of Arts and Sciences. She is the current editor of JCP.

---

Tuesday, November 17th, 2009

11:00 AM, Seminar Hall

Refreshments will be served